“Are You a Slice of P.I.E.?” is a fun, interactive, ethical workshop that equips interpreters with strategies for interpersonal skills to overcome challenges and handle many diverse situations while providing excellent ASL interpreting services.

This workshop is geared towards improving communication, collaboration and celebration of diverse groups working together. In this workshop, participants will do an introspective assessment, and observe multiple perspectives and strategies that assist in turning weaknesses into strengths with a positive outcome! You will learn how to embrace and counterbalance differences in interpreters, assignment complications and negative challenges that impact demand control schema leading to an improved relationship with all stakeholders. This results in agencies, organizations and clients requesting your interpreting services again and again!

Educational Objectives:

- Participants will be able to identify 3 techniques/strategies to remain professional and calm during unexpected challenges arising during assignments.
- Participants will be able to identify 5 interpersonal skills & understand how it affects professional decision-making and impacts their demand control schema.
- Participants will be able to identify at least 2 of their characteristics and personality traits, identifying their strengths.
- Participants will be able to identify 5 intrapersonal skills that bring positive outcomes in adversities that may arise from professional, personal or peer conflict while maintaining the standard of our Code of Professional Conduct.
